SERVICES CORRIDOR PHASE VIII

The following notice has been received from the Office of the Vice-President (Planning and Development):

The Services Corridor construction work now underway in the vicinity of 114 Street and 83 Avenue is an extension to the University of Alberta Utility Corridor System and the Phase VIII extension is a part of the facilities necessary to service the Health Sciences Centre Redevelopment.

This portion of the Services Corridor will run from the point of feed to the HSC in the vicinity of the Clinical Sciences Building, west along 83 Avenue to across 114 Street and will then jog south to the Aberhart access road to the Laundry Building, then north to the South Power Plant to connect in to both the South Power Plant and the existing University of Alberta Utilities Services Corridor System.

The work consists of approximately 1,900 feet of structural concrete shell, approximately 10 feet x 10 feet inside, and will be threaded through existing services, the hospital pedestrian tunnel, and other site and construction hazards and will also be positioned in the crossing point of 114 Street to remain clear of a possible rapid transit right-of-way. A corridor for a potential rapid transit along 109 Street through the University area to the south side of the High Level Bridge has been established some time ago and any construction work undertaken in the vicinity by either City of Edmonton, the University of Alberta or the University Hospital is to be arranged so as to maintain a clear right-of-way should this route be developed.

Poole Construction was awarded the contract for the work in July, the value being $1,873,787, and it is expected that the concrete shell will be completed by May 1978 and so allow relandscaping of the route prior to the Commonwealth Games in July 1978.

Piping will be installed later in the tunnel through access hatches located along the route and will not provide any serious conflict to traffic or pedestrian movement.

In setting out the construction procedure, the major objective was to undertake this major work in a manner that would minimize disruption to the area, including consideration of the following:

- (1) 114 Street will be maintained with one lane of traffic each way through the entire construction work by the use of temporary bridges or other facilities which could span the excavation;
- (2) pedestrian walkways will be built around the construction area and, as the construction progressively opens up new areas and completes work behind (the work is to proceed from the east to the west), pedestrian walks will be relocated as appropriate to maintain access between the Hospital Buildings and for general public access;
- (3) ETS bus routes through the affected area have been rerouted so as to maintain service to the University Hospital, the University, and other buildings in the area.

In conjunction with the Project Director's Office for the Health Sciences Redevelopment, a plan showing pedestrian and traffic access has been prepared to more clearly set out the pedestrian routes that will be available to the public during the construction work.

It can be anticipated that some disruption to normal traffic will result from the heavy construction activities of both Phase VIII Services Corridor and the Health Sciences Centre Redevelopment work. The heavy truck traffic in the last several weeks resulting from the excavation work now underway in both projects is an illustration of the kind of peak traffic loads which can be expected from time to time over the next year. Construction work of the magnitude involved along one of the main access routes to the University must be expected to cause some interruption to traffic service and will cause some inconvenience to people walking through the area. Considerable effort is being made to minimize these disruptions and inconveniences and public notices will be issued from time to time advising people of changes as they occur.

ELIZABETH HOMER MORTON 1903-1977

Elizabeth Homer Morton, first Executive Director of the Canadian Library Association and recipient of a Doctor of Laws degree, honoris causa from the University of Alberta, died recently in an Ottawa hospital after an illness of several months.

Born in Trinidad and educated in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, Dr. Morton served as Executive Director of the Canadian Library Association from its inception in 1946 until her official retirement in 1967. She was as well-known on the international library scene as on the Canadian. She fulfilled an important liaison function between the Canadian Library Association and the American Library Association and also worked on various projects for UNESCO, the International Federation of Library Associations and the International Board on Books for Young People.

A Festschrift, edited by Bruce Peel, University Librarian, was published to honor Dr. Morton on her retirement in 1968. In 1969 she was awarded the Medal of Service of the Order of Canada by the Right Honourable Roland Michener. Dr. Morton also received her Doctor of Laws from this University in 1969 on the occasion of the first convocation of the School of Library Science.

Following her retirement she continued to be active in library affairs, conducting research on the history of Canadian libraries, participating in a national survey of university libraries for the National Library, and conducting a survey of libraries for the province of Newfoundland. She was also active as a private consultant and lecturer.

Dr. Morton is remembered for her wit and wisdom and for her graceful ability to get the most from her colleagues with the least seeming pressure.

FINANCIAL POST CONFERENCE

The Honorable Peter Lougheed, Premier of Alberta, will be the keynote speaker at a Financial Post conference to be held at the Edmonton Plaza on 28 and 29 September. "Think west: what's ahead for business and investment in Western Canada" is sponsored by the Financial Post in cooperation with the Faculty of Extension.

The conference will deal with major areas of interest for all Albertans. Among the topics to be considered will be renewable resources, non-renewable resources, the relationship between Ottawa and the West, the particular needs of Western Canada, transportation, and investment in the province.

Speakers from the Edmonton area include Harry E. Gunning, President, the University of Alberta; Hu Harries, Hu Harries and Associates Ltd.; Harry Kostiuk, President, Alberta Federation of Labor; Professor Lorne C. Leitch, Vice-President (Finance and Administration), the University of Alberta; and Stanley A. Milner, President, Chieftain Development Co. Ltd.

Speakers from other areas of Canada include The Honorable Elwood Cowley, Provincial Secretary and Minister-in-Charge of the Potash Corporation, Government of Saskatchewan; John E. Maybin, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Canadian Utilities Limited, Toronto; and Paul S. Deacon, Publisher, The Financial Post, Toronto.

Academic staff may register for a reduced fee of $165. The regular registration fee is $325. Fee remission forms are available from departmental chairmen. Non-academic staff should enquire about departmental training funds from their heads of department.

For further information on the conference telephone 432-5067 or 432-5066.

EQUIPMENT INVENTORY LISTINGS: WHAT ARE THEY?

Imagine any of these situations. A researcher needs a particular piece of equipment for an experiment. His department does not have the equipment he needs, and he wants to find out if there is anyone on campus who might lend him the equipment required. A department is thinking of buying a certain item but first wishes to discuss its usefulness, its workings, and its dependability with someone who has that kind of item now. A particular piece of equipment has malfunctioned and its repair is delayed by the unfamiliarity of it; a similar piece of equipment is needed for a comparison study of how it works. A department decides that it wants to have a room-by-room listing of all the equipment it owns and is responsible for. What all these situations have in common is that the Equipment Inventory Group of Technical Services can provide the needed information.

The Equipment Inventory Group, located 6-29 Mechanical Engineering, keeps an up-to-date computerized record of all equipment on campus. They do not record equipment with a value of less than $100 or office furnishings or kitchen equipment and other furnishings used by Housing and Services. Still, the Inventory Group has over 60,000 pieces of equipment inventoried, and this equipment has a value of some $56,000,000. Every kind of equipment is listed—everything from typewriters to such esoteric items as a curve resolver.

Each piece of equipment is listed by type, manufacturer, model and serial number, and location (building, department, room), and the original cost, supplier, and purchase order number are also recorded. This information is available to anyone who needs it.

And it can be used in a variety of ways. Particular types of equipment can be located. Inventory listings can be made for departments, telling them exactly what is in each room in the department. Listings of equipment by manufacturer can also be made. Equipment inventories in various buildings can be useful for calculating insurance costs or for settling claims in the event of loss or damage.

Basically, the Equipment Inventory can be used in any way that members of the University community require. It is there as a service. For further information about Equipment Inventory Group and the services it provides, telephone Lloyd Stodgell at 432-3302.

THE CENTRE FOR RESEARCH IN TEACHING

Over the past two years D.A. MacKay, Professor of Elementary Education, several staff members, and graduate students from the Department of Elementary Education have been involved in a program of research in teaching. This research has been of such a nature that the need for input from all Departments in the Faculty of Education was soon recognised. Indeed, such input has become a necessity for comprehensive treatment of the topic and for ensuring the future utility of the research. With this in mind, the Faculty of Education promoted the establishment of a new institution on campus within the Faculty: the Centre for Research in Teaching (CRT).

The Centre for Research in Teaching was officially inaugurated on 1 July 1977 and is coordinated by Dr. MacKay, with the assistance of Elaine C. Osoba, a graduate student in the Department of Elementary Education (Curriculum). Already the Centre has isolated several primary goals. Firstly, the Centre expects to involve staff members of the Faculty of Education, as well as other scholars, in research in teaching and teacher education. Second, it is foreseen that the Centre will become a clearing-house for research findings that have a particular significance for teachers, teacher educators, and research scholars. Third, the Centre hopes to implement a program of coordinated research in teaching and teacher education within the Faculty of Education. Fourth, since the Centre has been established initially for a three-year period ending in August 1980 but expects that its activities will be of some significance, the Centre will develop and present proposals for major funding to various external agencies.

A number of activities are planned in order to achieve these four main objectives. A series of seminars will be held, beginning in the early Fall of 1977, which will acquaint Faculty staff with the broad field of enquiry, the results of studies already conducted, and which will determine the degree of staff involvement in the future work of the Centre. Also, a Policy Advisory Committee will be set up that will act in a liaison capacity between the Centre and the Faculty. This committee will be chaired by the Associate Dean (Planning and Development) and will include among its members one staff member from each Department of the Faculty and a representative of the Alberta Teachers' Association. In addition to this committee, a number of Centre Associates will be appointed during the first year of the Centre's operation. These persons will be staff members of the Faculty of Education, but may also include other scholars within the University who are particularly involved in some way with research in teaching or in teacher education. The Centre will provide various kinds of assistance to the Associates in order to help further their research. Publication of papers and monographs is also planned under the sponsorship of the CRT. It is most likely that the first of these will emerge from research already completed in 1976 and 1977. In this regard, it is expected that the details of such research will be given a wider audience by the presentation of several papers at the annual meeting of the American Educational Research Association to be held in Toronto in March 1978. Furthermore, the CRT, which is the first of its kind in Canada, will forge and maintain links with other similar Centres in the United States.

The activities of the Centre for Research in Teaching will be supported during the period July, 1977 to August, 1980 by a grant of $55,000 from the Trust Fund for Projects on Innovation in Teacher Education.

The Centre is housed in offices on the second floor of Education South and has its main office in Room 234. For more detailed information concerning the goals and activities of the Centre, interested persons are advised to telephone the Coordinator, Dr. MacKay, at 432-3285 or 432-4124 at their convenience.

CBC RADIO ON CAMPUS

CBC Radio will be broadcasting from the campus from 26 to 30 September. The remote broadcast is a continuation of the CBC policy of becoming actively involved in the community. Three local programs, "Edmonton A.M.", "Alberta Today", and "Four O'Clock Radio Conspiracy" will be broadcast each day from a location in front of the bookstore in SUB. The broadcasts will focus upon the educational process and campus life.

In addition to the regular programming will be "Dr. Bundolo's Pandemonium Medicine Show". The show will be featured in the SUB Theatre on 27 September at 8:30 p.m. Admission is $3, and tickets for the performance are available at the HUB Box Office.

All the programs will be heard on 740 Radio, but students on campus will also be able to hear the broadcasts for the entire week on the University's radio station, CKSR.
